New York organizations were directed ... the San Francisco trade union for confirmation of the charges made and were warned against holding any relations with Kearney, who, it was declared, is to make another tour for the purpose of creating dissension and dissatisfaction among the various labor organizations.

Some Plain Inquiries Put to Him by the Senate Sub-Committee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The senate sub-committee on labor and education resumed session to-day with only Senators Blair and Call present. Senator George ... having gone to England to pursue ... there.

Dr. Norvin Green took the stand again and in regard to Wheatstone operators said the Western Union company engaged and brought out these operators at a salary of $300 per year. All these operators are still in the Western Union employ and their salaries have in no case been reduced. In regard to the pay of railroad operators, witness said such operators were paid ten per cent on the business in addition to their salary from the railroad company.

Senator Blair asked whether the Western Union, considering the extent of its lines and profits could not pay higher wages to its employes.

Witness replied that their employes were paid as well as any other class considering the hours of labor and the service rendered, except public school teachers of this city.

Senator Blair—Now to come to be plain in the matter, ... your company do something in the way of improving the condition of your employes?

Senator Blair—Now doctor, can you give us some information in regard to what is known as watered stock?

Dr. Green said he would not like to testify on that matter as anything he could say on the subject would be only a matter of opinion. He said the capitalization of the Western Union did not exceed the actual cash paid for the stock. He also said the company realize 10 per cent on their investment.

Senator Blair—And the public pay for this.

Witness—Yes, but the stockholders have a right to claim it all the same.

Senator Blair—Your dividend you say is only 7 per cent?

Witness—Very true, and the stockholders have the right to utilize the remainder by accumulating a surplus stock dividend.

Witness—8½ per cent in cash to the stockholders and the rest is retained to be given to them in the shape of scrip ... some day either in stock or ... value of property or otherwise.

ARMY GOSSIP

Who Will Get the Chicago Post? The Indian Question—The Army and the People.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—N. H. Davis, inspector general of the United States army, has just returned from a month's leave of absence in the west. General Davis in conversation with a reporter, ... the current ... is ... likely to succeed Sheridan when ... into Sherman's place. General Hancock it is known ... have the place if he desires it, but he is said to have made known to the president his preference for remaining at New York ... of the department of the Atlantic. As General Hancock's friends ... with Mr. Arthur ... the understanding is general that he will remain. Governor's Island. But Pope has made such fine arrangements that he will try to stay where he is ... that he will not ... unless it is absolutely necessary.

THE INDIAN QUESTION

Mr. Davis is an advocate of fewer posts and larger garrisons. A great saving would be secured under this system he thinks in the matter of transportation. General Crook he thinks, by taking a stand against the punishment of the Apaches now in the reservation, is keeping his word with the surrendered Indians and if it was violated the Indians would give trouble. General Davis holds that the government is making a mistake in treating the Indians as independent sovereigns instead of wards of the nation. While wards they ought to be protected and made to obey and ... punishment ought to be meted ... them. As to an increase of the army he believes that possibly it may be brought about.

VOX POPULI VOX DEI

How the Elder Bennett Proved the Proposition to Judge Black.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Anecdotes of Judge Black are circulating freely. One of them is to the effect that in 1858 he was present at an interview between the elder Bennett and President Buchanan. Mr. Buchanan asked Mr. Bennett how he had made the Herald such a prosperous paper.

The people replied Mr. Bennett. "I support the Herald and I act on the principle that the paper in turn should support the people. I try to make it a reflex of public opinion and to follow rather than attempt to lead the public."

Judge Black did not like this policy and bluntly told Mr. Bennett so. He thought the conductor of a newspaper should have some fixed convictions of his own; that he should rather act with the whig or the democratic party. "I do not believe," said he, "in the old adage, vox populi vox Dei." President Buchanan was surprised at Black's brusqueness. Bennett was not only surprised but a little ... The judge undertook to squelch the editor. Mr. Bennett," he said, "allow me to ask you a question. If you had lived in Jerusalem in the time of Christ, when the interests of humanity were at stake—when the Savior of the world was on trial before Pontius Pilate—would you have been on the side of the mob, the rabble of Jerusalem, who cried, Crucify him, or would you have been on the side of the ... ?"

Mr. Buchanan was about to interpose thinking that Mr. Bennett had been floored. The editor however was quick with his answer. In that broad Scotch accent which came to him in moments of excitement he said: "Mr. Black, I should have been on the side of the people, on the side of the rabble ... as you call them. I should have been on the side of the mob. Judge, who as you say cried Crucify him. Had he not been crucified, Mr. Black, where today would have been your hope of salvation?"

STOCKS AND CROPS

Jay Gould Tells What he Thinks of the Prospect

Interview in New York Tribune.

In the course of an interview Mr. Gould said: "The crop reports from Europe are not as favorable as they have been, and they indicate a desirable advantage to the crops. We have in this country a large percentage of last year's products still on hand and at the same time abundant crops this season are assured. We shall have sufficient to supply the European demand, which is sure to be large ... The crops are beginning to move ... as seen in my reports from the west. The daily car statements ... I receive from our railroads show ... very ... I am ... the ... in August. The recent decline in stocks cannot have had any great effect on the business of the country. This I think is a fairly good condition. The telegraph business is a good index of the state of trade and the Western Union Company has returned to the full volume of business which it did before the strike began. It handled over 60,000 messages at the head office yesterday, the usual average before the strike was from 57,000 to 60,000 messages a day. In spite of the strike it will earn a handsome surplus, also its dividends for that quarter.

I satisfied myself of this to-day when I ran over the accounts with the auditor. As all the principal points, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, New Orleans and at Memphis the reports showed a large increase in the amount of business. I think this is a sure indication of an active business.

Take this little trouble at Chicago over the passenger business to St. Louis. It has been settled by the Alton and the Wabash pooling it. In the old days the roads would have fought over it until one or the other was exhausted. The railroad management of to-day is much better than it used to be. When I was a boy the doctors used to treat every disease by bleeding. In theory was to take away the blood and the disease should have nothing left to feed on. One of my arms is covered with scars where the blood was let out. Now all this is very different. Now railroad men and manufacturers as well as the doctors have learned something in the last quarter of a century. I think the reckless ... is ... the weak places in the market and stocks are ... I think good sale stock ... who are acting without rhyme or reason.

THE VILLARD ENDOWMENT

The comments made by Judge Deady upon the "Villard endowment," in the report of the condition of the university of Oregon, are worthy of the most serious consideration by the "enterprising and fortunate individuals" to whom they especially apply That this gift of $50 000 to the university should be the "only considerable contribution ever made in this state by private wealth to public uses," is remarkable. This is a permanent state, not a mining camp where people are, in the strict sense of the word, pilgrims, having "no continuing city," but temporarily abiding, while their pockets are filling with the products of the mines, and ready to move again as soon as the mines are exhausted. In such a community no one would expect that much attention would be given to public improvements of a permanent character But Oregon is a state which has permanent resources Its first settlers came here to stay and those who have followed found the fabled lotos growing on the banks of the Willamette and Columbia and said "we will roam no more" Of course, the first duty of new settlers in any community is to provide for their daily wants, but this is already an old country "For a third of a century" says Judge Deady, "wealth has been accumulating in the hands of enterprising and fortunate individuals in Oregon, without any other distribution than the every day expenditures that are necessary and incident to ownership. No town or place in Oregon can yet boast of a building, monument arch, fountain, hospital, asylum, gallery, school, or church, the gift of any one of its citizens."

Judge Deady says very truly that Mr Villard has discharged, in making this gift to the university, "an undefined but high moral obligation which the enterprises of which he is a representative are under to the country upon whose well-being and doing they so largely depend for their success." But if this obligation rests upon the representatives of the transportation companies which derive their life from this community, much more does it rest upon these men whose interests are more closely allied to those of the people with whom they live. The law recognizes this obligation when it imposes a tax upon the property of these "fortunate individuals" to support public schools for the benefit of other children than their own Wealth imposes obligation no less than privileged station. What is the school tax, for example but a compulsory addition which the law says the rich shall make to the wages of the laboring poor? Extend this obligation a little further and we have the basis for a public claim upon fortunate individuals for a share of the wealth which has been withdrawn by them from the community in which they live It is an obligation which thousands of men have recognized. John F. Slater of Connecticut recognized it when he gave a million of dollars recently, to aid the freedmen in obtaining an education, so that they may become better citizens George Peabody William E Dodge Mr Stone of Malden Massachusetts and many more whose names will readily occur, all looked upon themselves as trustees for the benefit of mankind. All such examples, that of Mr Villard especially here, ought to be referred to often, with commendation, because, as Judge Deady says, they "familiarize men's minds with the true use of riches." This obligation of the rich is not a communistic idea It enters into the structure of the highest society Not to recognize it is to declare one's self a Philistine in the sense in which that word has, of late, become an epithet, used to designate a man who is indifferent to all social interests, all public life as distinguished from selfish and private interests, who has no sympathy with political and social events, except as they affect his own comfort or prosperity, and offer him material for amusement, or opportunity for gratifying his vanity." If there are such men in Oregon may their name decrease We want no Philistines here.

WORK OF THE FISH COMMISSION

Very important results have followed the efforts of the fish commission during the past year. Through its agency much has been added to the science or knowledge of fish breeding and much practical good has been done by the transplanting of food fish We have an example near home in the stocking of the Columbia with shad, which were never found there till last year During the past spring and early summer they were in tolerable supply at Astoria, and by another season or two seasons at most, it is thought that they will be plentiful and cheap. Besides various hatching stations, the fish commission now has two fine steamships—the Albatross of 1000 tons and the Fish Hawk of 40 tons, each commanded by a lieutenant of the navy. The Albatross has been pursuing, during the summer, along the north Atlantic coast, a deep-sea research for investigation of facts pertaining to the life and habits of sea fish Every instrument known to modern science that will facilitate this work has been provided. By means of the electric lamp, the last addition to the apparatus, which may be let down into the sea to the depth of four or five hundred feet, deep sea fish are attracted to the surface, when they then can be captured in nets. Besides all this she is fitted for every kind of fishing, and good results are expected from her summer cruise. The Fish Hawk, which has been in commission several years, was designed mainly as a float ing hatchery, and is now employed in the Chesapeake locating nets around its shore and getting statistics of the fish catch of last season. She is also hatching Spanish mackerel and watching the cultivation of the oyster

Great industry has been displayed by the commission this year in the distribution of fish in our inland waters. Carp, shad, salmon, herring or white fish have been sent to nearly every part of the country. Over 200 000 carp have been given to 10,000 applicants, the distribution of young shad this year has reached 15,000,000, and 40,000,000 young white fish have been added to the stock in the great lakes. These, with the trout and salmon deposited in the rivers of this coast and New England, make nearly one hundred millions of fish fry [illegible] by the commission since last spring.

It is to be hoped that the fish commission, which is now represented in the northwest by one of its members, will take hold of the matter of salmon propagation here From interest in the question recently expressed by packers on the Columbia river, we are sure that they would contribute substantially to the support of a hatchery enterprise, if it were once in practical operation

The little town of Benson, Vermont, which has just celebrated its centennial anniversary is a fair sample of many New England hill communities It reached its high water mark of population in 1830, when it had 1493 inhabitants It has decreased every decade since, until now there are but 1104 Western emigration, which has sapped the life of so many of these towns, is the cause of this decline. But worse than the decrease of population is the deterioration in its character, which the itinerant life of the community has bred Those country towns fifty years ago before the advent of rail roads and improved transportation facilities led to the centralization of business, those country towns were the homes of an active and vigorous manhood, gifted with an intelligence which was not equal in its effects The stimulus of hope is gone, and a passive silence has taken the place of activity. The graveyard is the only part of the town which grows in importance and numbers. Benson is the birth place of the Dorseys, of unsavory star route fame, and also of William Pitt Kellogg. But none of these prophets were of sufficient honor in their own town to receive an invitation to the celebration.

A NEW DREDGER

A dredger, designed to work in sand or gravel in deep or shoal channels and in smooth or rough water has been invented by Mr O H Cornelius and G H Turner of Turner's station, Marion county It is an application of the hydraulic principle which has proved so successful at St Helens bar, the sluicing force being a direct heavy column of water discharged at an angle of forty five degrees from the bottom of a boat sufficiently powerful to move backward and forward as will while the dredging operation is in progress A working model, which we were permitted to see yesterday, consists of a hull like that of an ordinary tugboat, with a deep groove for recess in the bottom extending from near the bow to a little abaft of midships Laid in this groove is a metallic tube not unlike a cannon whose discharging end may be lowered to any degree desired Through this tube a column of water may be forced by an appliance of Mr Cornelius invention which produces power a direct shot being maintained by a system of grades within the cylinder which supplies it At the force of double engines working on a single pivot is applied to forcing water through an iron, from the tube none being required to pump up, the supply being constant and unlimited, as the feeding head is below the water level and draws directly from the river The model exhibited is on a plan which would enable a boat as large as the tug Columbia to discharge a jet of water through a tube four feet in diameter at the discharging point at a velocity of 1850 feet per minute or twenty one miles per hour The power of such a stream is wonderful Even the working model which is less than three feet long with a tube only two inches in diameter, sends a stream down at a point double the depth of its own draught which moves sand and pebbles like chaff By heavy or light ballasting and by raising or lowering of the discharging tube a dredger furnished with this appliance could easily be adapted to deep or shoal work. Light boats could be used with great effect on the sand bars at Waller's island, Martin's island or St Helens while a heavier boat capable of forcing its way back and forth through the heavy swells and breakers of the Columbia bar could doubtless do effective work there It is claimed by the proprietors of the invention Messrs. Cornelius & Turner who will receive letters patent upon it to-day that it will dig and maintain deep channels from Portland to the ocean Any scheme which gives reasonable promise of doing this merits investigation, and we hope that this will receive it We learn that the dredging committee of the board of trade composed of Messrs. D P Thompson C P Church and C H Dodd will witness a practical test of the working model to-day.

SUICIDE

A writer in a recent number of a prominent English review has called attention to the fact that within the last decade there has been an enormous increase in the ratio, both of insanity and suicide in almost all of the civilized countries of the world And he draws the conclusion that the more advanced in education and prosperity a people become the stronger grow the temptations to commit suicide and the more potent the causes which tend toward insanity Suicide finds most of its victims among those who, in one way or another, have been unsuccessful in the battle of life, and who in the gradual weakening of religious restraints have not the moral strength to endure defeat It is not true that suicide presupposes insanity. This plea of charity is not well founded But it does presuppose cowardice. It is the most cowardly act a man can perform. It is his acknowledgment that he is not equal to life. And it is doubtless because the demands of life are increasing with advancing civilization that suicides seem to become more frequent We say seem to become because it is not certain that there are more suicides now than in former ages or even in less remote times They are massed together by the telegraphic reports in the morning newspapers now so that their list seems more appalling Here is the list for one day Senator Allison's wife drowned in the Mississippi river, a traveling salesman from New York poisoned at the Dunlap house in Albany a shoe manufacturer hung at Wakefield Mass a private of Battery D, U S A drowned at Newport, R I a man at Orange N J shot after having broken the teleperance pledge and a Swedish shoemaker hung in New York Here are six suicides reported in one day, All but one of these might have occurred thirty years ago, and never have been reported, except in the local papers But suicides are nevertheless so frequent as to excite alarm on the part of philanthropists and suggest a doubt as to the future of civilization if we have no means to prevent them It is wrong, we believe for one thing, to extenuate the guilt of suicide It is self murder, as much a crime as it is to murder a fellow man. The Independent justly censures the practice, on the part of clergymen and journalists, of trying to extenuate the guilt of suicide, and argues that the hope of publicity is in many cases a leading motive to the crime, which would be perpetrated less frequently if the press would refuse to be restrained by any circumstances of honor or any considerations of tenderness to kinsfolk from its duty of stigmatizing the baseness, the poltroonery, the selfish cruelty to others of the suicide's crime as they deserve

There is much pertinence in these suggestions Even insane people are amenable to motives They are restrained by fear of punishment and controlled by apprehensions of various kinds If the person who is tempted to take his life knew that the public generally would regard such an act as a sign of cowardice of cruel and selfish disregard of the feelings of relatives and friends, as a nasty and disgusting performance, and a loathesome crime, he would brace up and try to live We are by no means unqualified admirers of Carlyle, but we share to the fullest extent his horror and reprobation of suicide as not which he fitly characterized as the puking up of existence

The old notion that no harm can come to people while engaged in the performance of religious duties still prevails more or less in all parts of the world We hear advocates of immersion for example argue that it is perfectly safe for delicate persons to be immersed even in cold weather because it is an act of obedience to an explicit command of God, and hence can be no danger, therefore, in going down into the water People who are capable of defending a mode of baptism by such reasoning will not be much influenced by actual occurrences which conflict with their theories A short time since the principal church in the town of Lagos, Mexico, was struck by lightning while service was being held and the priest, four women and a little girl were killed Such calamities have befallen worshippers many times. Churches have been destroyed by cyclones while congregations inside were worshipping God People have been drowned and many more have been seriously injured in health while being baptized by immersion But these things prove nothing either one way or the other respecting the mode of baptism We are living under a reign of law "The wind bloweth where it listeth" The lightning falls where it listeth Nature has many beautiful aspects, but no sympathy Her laws grind on remorselessly night and day without compassion or tenderness deaf alike to the mother's appeal for the life of her innocent babe and the baffled rage of the king of beasts The pestilence that walks in darkness enters the chamber of the devout maiden as well as the abode of the criminal We are accustomed to speak of the "heart of nature. But that is only a figure of speech When closely viewed nature is rather a magnificent panorama of death Nature and natural religion have never furnished a conception of religion other than fatalism. Religion and religious rites cannot be successfully defended or wisely commended by arguments which suppose that nature will deviate from her course on of deference to religion On one occasion a Roman Catholic church was burning, and the cry was raised to save the cross on the spire A crowd of devout women shouted it will not burn for it has been blessed by the pope But they were silenced by a man more practical but perhaps not less devout, who told them them to stop their foolish talk for he said Of course it will burn; it is wood

Complaint is made that Secretary Lincoln never visits his father's grave at Springfield Ill But no one has a right to criticise him for that Graves enjoy under the large list of things about which there should be no grim [illegible] tions and recriminations It is most that a well regulated mind cares to be assured of is that the remains of relatives and friends are safe from disturbance and violation The habit of associating the presence of the departed with the graves where their bodies repose is in one sense to be commended It has a humanizing influence as it sets a seal upon the truth that man does not die as the beast dies But it can be carried too far and be made the means of practically subverting that very truth The words uttered at the empty sepulchre of our Lord He is not here have a wide application President Lincoln is not in that grave at Springfield He is rather in the free dom and renewed life of this nation President Arthur, too has been charged with a lack of filial feeling because he has never returned to his birthplace in Fairfield Vt. But all such criticisms display a narrowness of spirit which neither the president nor his secretary will regard The house where the president was born has been moved from its original site and nothing but a collapsed cellar with willow bushes growing up in it marks the spot For those who have a taste for such things it has a certain interest But there should be no disputes over matters of taste

President John Quincy Adams was in the habit of bathing before sunrise in the Potomac swimming rapidly and turning occasionally upon his back seeming as much at his ease as upon terra firma. and Thurlow Weed saw him do it It cost the government less for vacations and recreations of presidents and members of cabinets than it does now. No further back than Buchanan's time which is referred to now as the good old times of republican simplicity and honesty presidents had some scruples on this point On one occasion he wrote to his niece Miss Lane saying "I am sorry to find that your excursion to West Point on the Harriet Lane has been made the subject of newspaper criticism on yourself The practice, however of employing national vessels on pleasure excursions to gratify any class of people is a fair subject of public criticism You know how much I condemned your former trip on the same vessel, and I did not expect you would fall into a second error The thing however is past and gone, and let it pass After a fair time shall have elapsed it is my purpose to cause general orders to be issued by the treasury and naval departments to stop the practice No law or constitutional provision allows such use of a government vessel by the president or a member of his family The scandals which have occurred within the past ten years suggest the propriety of some action by congress to prohibit it

It will be no longer a mark of distinction for a state to manufacture wooden nutmegs for the manufacture of artificial eggs is said to be one of the industries of Newark N J One factory there is said to turn out about a thousand eggs an hour, the quality being so good it is stated that only a very close observer could detect the difference between them and hen's eggs The yolk is said to be a mixture of Indian meal, corn starch and several other ingredients The eggs are sold at $13 a thousand, and all the company can now make are taken by two New York houses It is not stated whether these eggs have that perverse habit of outliving their usefulness which has given to natural eggs a wide-spread notoriety If they have not they will supply a long felt want

Few people particularly Oregon producers realize how much the value of a marketable commodity is enhanced by its appearance It is especially true of edible fruit growers have discovered that their wares if packed in tasty boxes or baskets command a far higher price than when they are shipped unaided by such appliances The man who first made plinth boxes for blackberries and raspberries reaped a rich reward and any farmer's wife who will take the trouble to make her butter up into pats, instead of sending it in bulk to be scooped out in quarters half-pounds and pounds discovers that she adds very considerably to its market price There is an immense deal in pleasing the eye

A POINT IN PRE-EMPTION

Bare Occupancy Does Not Give Title to Public Land

In the case of the Stockton building and loan association against Chalmers and others the supreme court decides that the bare occupancy of government land no other step in the direction of pre emption having been taken by the occupant during his life, or by his administrator or heirs after his death, notwithstanding that the probate court may have set apart the land as a homestead for the family of the deceased does not stand in the way to prevent a third party from filing a pre emption claim for the same land The setting-apart by the probate court does not give title, nor do those of the steps requisite to obtain a pre-emption title In this case one Alhoff entered upon a piece of unsurveyed government land, extending his occupancy over about twenty three acres He put on it a dwelling house, barn and wine cellar, and planted a vineyard and lived on it till his death, a period of twelve years He left a widow and two sons, the widow appointed administratrix In the same year that Alhoff died the probate court set apart the tract as a homestead for the widow and two sons This was in 1867 In May 1869 the defendant Robert Chalmers was appointed guardian of the sons who were then minors but filed no inventory or report In July, 1869 the widow married Robert Chalmers, who took her and her two sons to live with him in his house on the opposite side of the road which divides his from the Alhoff place. No steps had yet been taken by the administratrix or any one else toward completing a final pre emption In July, 1871 the United States survey was completed Robert Chalmers then filed a pre-emption claim including his own residence and also something over nine acres of the Alhoff tract, being the portion upon which the Alhoff dwelling, barn and wine cellar were situated, and obtained a United States patent therefor He afterward executed to the plaintiff in this suit a mortgage upon the land for which he had obtained a patent. The suit was brought to foreclose that mortgage and the two sons, who in the meantime had attained their majority were admitted as intervening defendants They claimed that the United States patent obtained by Chalmers so far as it related to the Alhoff tract, was held by him in trust for their use They also relied on the action of the probate court in setting the tract apart as a homestead The supreme court decided against them on both points

CITY.

[illegible] READY FOR THE PARADE.—General Mor[illegible] is looking after those who are to form the grand [illegible] on the 11th with a sharp stick. The civic [illegible] are slow to respond. Bethel Home Lodge [illegible] I. O. G. T., the German Aid society, the Ger[illegible] Lodge K. of P., and the city council of East [illegible] being the only ones that have thus far ac[illegible] the invitation extended to all civic societies. [illegible] Grand Army boys are responding to the invita[illegible] extended to them through the department com[illegible] General Conkin, and will make a good show[illegible] the old veterans always do. F. J. Alex. Mayer [illegible] appointed as commander of a division [illegible] entirely of the different German societies. [illegible] Morrow requests that all civic societies [illegible] kind enough to notify him of their accep[illegible] early as Thursday so that they may be as[illegible] to their positions in the division. All along [illegible] of march preparations for the great event [illegible] actively going on, and the great triumph[illegible] at various points are being dressed with [illegible] preparatory to the decorations of evergreens [illegible] Arrangements have also been made by [illegible] to build a grand stand for the re[illegible] of the guests upon that portion of the [illegible] square which fronts on Main street. [illegible] in progress. [illegible] with the assistance and en[illegible] could be possessed by a much younger [illegible] to work making such improvements [illegible] With a patent tree trimmer [illegible] lopped off all the unsightly looking branches [illegible] trees in front of the square and much im[illegible] general appearance of the place further [illegible] the iron fence a fresh coat of black paint.

[illegible] POSTAL NOTE.—Before the money order de[illegible] of the Portland postoffice was opened yes[illegible] there were three individuals waiting [illegible] for the purpose of having the distin[illegible] honor of buying and becoming the possessor [illegible] first United States postal note ever issued in [illegible] city. [illegible] and every one of the three were [illegible] disappointment. No sooner was the win[illegible] open than Postmaster Steele presented himself [illegible] waited upon and bought the first note, [illegible] to San Francisco. Nos. 2, 3 and 4 were [illegible] but beyond that there was not the ex[illegible] demand for this new means of trans[illegible] money. During the entire day but twelve [illegible] sold. It is to be feared that these postal [illegible] especially on the Pacific coast, will be a fail[illegible] in [illegible] country such a thing as a mail [illegible] occur once in a while, and if a postal note [illegible] the money paid upon it cannot be recovered, [illegible] will not be paid at any other office than [illegible] which it is issued, but if by any means it [illegible] irrecoverably lost, one might just as well [illegible] with the person who sends the [illegible] the one who receives it can by any way re[illegible] Money-order clerks are required [illegible] all parties who ask for these postal notes [illegible] extreme destructability, in consequence of [illegible] desire for gas with most people is at once [illegible] There are but few who would not rather [illegible] extra few cents and have their cash securely [illegible] by means of a money order.

[illegible] SCHWATKA PARTY.—John Ward, [illegible] connected with the Cape Fox Salmon [illegible] Company at Boughen Inlet, Alaska, came [illegible] the Idaho. He states that two prospectors [illegible] from the interior a short time before he [illegible] who had met Lieut. Schwatka and his party 300 [illegible] from Chilcat and camped one night [illegible] They were going down a tributary of [illegible] about as large as the Willamette upon a [illegible] Owing to a long and dangerous passage [illegible] canyon none of the party would go with [illegible] who was obliged to make the perilous [illegible] which he did in safety. While there [illegible] the party walked around. The party [illegible] in good health and spirits and looking for[illegible] to good reaching the Yukon. This is probably [illegible] that will be heard from the party until they [illegible] the Yukon's mouth. Mr. Ward stated that [illegible] very plentiful at Boughen Inlet. The [illegible] company has two traps and plenty of seine [illegible] but caught more fish than they could use [illegible] The cannery was [illegible] half as [illegible] in the Columbia but are of good quality.

[illegible] FOR ANCIENT MARINERS.—The grand [illegible] has prescribed the following uniform to be [illegible] by ancient grand marshals and aides on the [illegible] of the celebration: Aides—Black suits; [illegible] gloves or gauntlets; soft black felt hat looped [illegible] the left side and fastened in place by a small [illegible] rosette, the crown slightly indented; [illegible] or red silk sash three inches [illegible] to be worn over the right shoulder extending [illegible] across the body to the left at or near the [illegible] and fastened in place by a rosette of red, white [illegible] The assistant grand marshals—Same as [illegible] except that the sash to be worn across the [illegible] will be of white silk four inches wide. In [illegible] the marshals will carry in their hands [illegible] wound with red, white and blue ribbon.

[illegible] MATTER.—Two cents is just as good to a [illegible] as it is to the United States govern[illegible] Yet, no later than yesterday every person [illegible] bought a money order at the office in this city, [illegible] which he should have paid but eight cents, was [illegible] to pay ten; because the postoffice had no [illegible] Two cents is a very small sum, but it [illegible] a good deal in a year, considering the [illegible] money orders issued for sums under $30, [illegible] this does not have to account for [illegible] there is a temptation placed in the way of [illegible] to line his pockets with a little spending [illegible] Either the government should supply the [illegible] with several bushels of pennies, or should [illegible] the clerks to pay the difference with stamps.

[illegible] WIRE GOES DOWN.—A gentleman who [illegible] returned from a trip through southern [illegible] states that it is no wonder that telegraphic [illegible] communication between this place and San Francis[illegible] is frequently interrupted. He says that the [illegible] poles are rotted off and are raised up [illegible] supported by a stick placed under them, [illegible] can be knocked out by the slightest accident, [illegible] anything falling on it, for instance. At the [illegible] where the teams leave the road for the Siski[illegible] the teamsters have to lift the wire with [illegible] hands in order to pass under it. If there are [illegible] to repairs made on this line until the railroad [illegible] completed the wires will be undergrounded by that [illegible]

[illegible] THROUGH TRAINS.—For the benefit of those [illegible] line of the Northern Pacific and Oregon Rail[illegible] and Navigation who desire to see the trains [illegible] the Villard and invited guests, through which [illegible] originally at Spokane give the The train [illegible] Missoula at 1 P. Monday and [illegible] advance train at 8:51 A. M., The Dalles [illegible] Hood River at 2:30, reaching Portland at [illegible] each succeeding train will follow half an hour [illegible]

[illegible] RAILWAY CAR TICKETS.—Some of the [illegible] as well as the incongruities of late have [illegible] by the Multnomah and Transconti[illegible] street car lines. An agreement has been [illegible] between these two companies to take each [illegible] tickets, and now, if a person with a bunch of [illegible] tickets wishes to ride on the [illegible] street line, or vice versa, he does not have to [illegible] tickets. [illegible] in his pocket and be [illegible] Halladay of the First street line, can [illegible] through his fault; must any benefit [illegible] derived from the exchange of such courtesies, [illegible] be a party to the above mentioned [illegible] arrangement.

[illegible] BY A HORSE.—Last night, about dark, [illegible] a middle-aged man, who has charge of [illegible] in Dunn's brick yard north of [illegible] bitten on the hip by one of the animals, hereto[illegible] considered gentle, and received a [illegible] in the [illegible] upper lip [illegible] for more than an hour, bleeding pro[illegible] When [illegible] the doctor [illegible] W. He [illegible] with a good deal of trouble to understand a [illegible] English and worse Chinook sufficient to [illegible] inform a reporter that his name was Kus[illegible] and that he had just come from Salem, where [illegible] served a year in the penitentiary, havi[illegible] sent there by Judge Deady for making [illegible] or Indian whisky. Kustine will return to [illegible] by the next steamer.

[illegible] AT THE BUGGY LOAD.—Saturday last being [illegible] day of the duck shooting season, Messrs. [illegible] Rathbone and R. W. Moore went down [illegible] place, at the head of Sauvie's Island, to [illegible] that so-called sport. They killed in one day's [illegible] seventy-five ducks and four snipe. The [illegible] mallards and wood ducks, and filled the [illegible] buggy full. The boys claim to have made [illegible] big of the season, but there are several [illegible] to be heard from yet. Any two sportsmen [illegible] killed a larger number will please let it be [illegible]

[illegible] JURY AT WORK.—The first work that the [illegible] jury did—and this was entered upon at [illegible] was to begin the examination of the crowd of [illegible] who know, or pretend to know, anything [illegible] the killing of the gambler Jimmy [illegible] by one of his fellows—Billy, Acock. It may [illegible] some little time before an indictment [illegible] will be returned to the court as some of [illegible] who are needed have left the city. [illegible] bonds of $5000, holding him upon a charge [illegible] are considered sufficient as yet.

[illegible] ENGINES FOR THE O. & C.—Yesterday the [illegible] and California railroad received via the [illegible] Pacific, from the Baldwin locomotive [illegible] three freight engines, weighing thirty-three [illegible] each. A fourth engine is en route overland. [illegible] engines—six passenger and six freight [illegible] are coming by rail, and the first batch will [illegible] about the 1st of October. One of the engines [illegible] yesterday will be used on the west side, the [illegible] on the east side.

It will be [illegible] obtain boxes on account of the recent [illegible] of the factory, and the train will probably [illegible] a day or two on account of this addition.

[illegible] GONE.—Yesterday John W. Shattuck, an [illegible] Oregon pioneer, died at his home in Oregon [illegible] aged 74 years. The deceased was the father of [illegible] E. D. Shattuck, of this city. His wife [illegible] him.

THE COURTS.

Lively Business Upon the Opening of the State Circuit Court.

A PETITION TO THE PRESIDENT FOR PARDON.

Voluminous Docket Disposed of by the Police Judge—The Usual Run of Minor Matters Before the Precinct Justices.

United States Courts.

PETITION FOR PARDON.

In the circuit court, in the case of the United States vs. Lafayette Thompson of Monroe, wherein the defendant was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days in jail, there is a strong effort being made to get the president's pardon, so far as a remission of the imprisonment is concerned. Both Judge Deady and District Attorney Watson have recommended that the executive clemency be extended to Thompson, and a petition for that purpose has already been forwarded to Washington. It appears that Thompson's offense consists mainly in being too accommodating. He sold alcohol in small quantities to some people who asked it as a special favor. There is little doubt but that he knew better, but his goodness of heart led him astray.

CHINESE HABEAS CORPUS.

Hon. Rufus Mallory of counsel for the Chinese gamblers, has signified his intention of filing this morning in the circuit court an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the cases of his clients who are now in police custody. He wishes to transfer the question of gambling and gives as his ground for the application that portion of section 758 of the revised statutes, which provides that no person shall be deprived of his liberty without due process of law. He claims that this has been done and by means of the writ for which he applies hopes to show that the ordinance is illegal. The point is a very fine one, but strong efforts will be made to have it [illegible] up well.

DISTRICT COURT CASES.

Reid vs O. & W. Trust Company; demurrer to complaint sustained.

[illegible] vs Home Mutual Insurance Company; plaintiff allowed till 13th to reply to answer.

State Circuit Court.

The state circuit court for Multnomah county, September term, convened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, his honor, Judge Stott upon the bench. There was a very large attendance of the members of the bar, not less than forty being present, and more than the usual excitement and bustle was noticed among them. This was due in part to the announcement in Sunday's OREGONIAN that Judge Stott would reverse the order of cases set down for trial during the September term, beginning with the equity suits, following these up with criminal matters and closing the term with the law cases, which have usually come first. This new order was strictly adhered to. In most cases, however, where the parties in the equity suits had not reached a settlement they announced themselves ready for trial, and during the present week the cases will be taken up in their chronological order.

The first business done was the appointment of the court officers, as follows: Crier, Silas G. Kelly; bailiffs, T. C. Powell and George W. Vollum, Jr. Each were only sworn and instructed in their duties. Last term the court tried to get along with one bailiff and a crier, but this attempt at economy was not satisfactory, hence the appointment of Mr. Vollum as an additional bailiff this term. Bailiff Powell was directed to be in attendance upon the grand jury at all times when they were in session. Judge Stott then read over, for the purpose of inquiring of the attorneys whether they were ready for trial, the following:

THE GRAND JURY.

The court then instructed Clerk Marshall to draw the grand jury, which resulted as follows: Henry Davenport, D. Ellerson, P. W. Severson, G. Gruner, Solomon Richards, M. Rosenblatt and Theodore Nicolai. Mr. Ellerson was appointed foreman. The jury were then sworn and Judge Stott offered the usual instructions to them at some length, dwelling especially upon their duty in indicting all persons in the county and outside the city limits who might be found to be selling liquor in quantities less than a quart without a county license. They then retired and began their labors.

Earrington vs. Watson; Judge Bellinger, attorney for the plaintiff, filed a complaint and asked a preliminary injunction restraining the defendant from moving a house from a lot on the southwest corner of F and Front streets. Judge Stott issued an order granting the preliminary injunction.

CALENDAR OF LAW CASES.

The docket had been prepared for the cases in law, but Judge Stott took up the old calendar of January, 1882, and began reading the titles of all those suits which had not been marked off, in order, as he said, to see what condition they were in. It was thought some of the lawyers who were not down in attorneys [illegible] to cases knew [illegible] about them than the judge himself. In some cases differences had been settled and others forgotten, so that over half were ordered dismissed. After reading the titles of a score or more the judge stopped short, closed the book and remarked: "I don't see that I can get much good out of reading over that docket."

Announcement was then made that the court would hear the equity case of Amanda C. Bloomfield vs. Phoebe M. Humason, in the afternoon.

All the petit jurors were then excused from further attendance upon the court until Tuesday, the 18th inst., at 1 o'clock, and the court took a recess until afternoon.

The above mentioned suit of Bloomfield vs. Humason came up for hearing of the final argument upon the report of the referee, and such argument on both sides occupied the remainder of the day without reaching a conclusion.

BEFORE BURNWILLER.

Deputy Poundmaster Wm. Noland has been arrested for alleged horse stealing—a charge that would have hung him in the early days on the frontier. A poundmaster or his deputy, one is peculiarly liable to such charges, and the ample protection afforded the accused by the laws of the land is confidently expected by the subject of this particular case. Noland is charged by George T. Reed with having driven a horse of his from the bottom lands of North Portland and, without reason, locked the animal within the pound. A preliminary examination was begun before Justice Burnwiller and will be concluded to-day.

[illegible] vs. Wm. Ellers; action for $21.50.

Abraham vs. Bridges; action for $27.

BEFORE DAVIS.

Wm. Harris was to be tried in Justice Davis' court on a charge of stealing a coat from I. Bernstein, a tailor on Washington street. Harr[is] alleged that the coat was given him by a man who has now gone to San Francisco, and as the evidence against him was not very strong, Mr. Halsey allowed the case to be dismissed on Harris paying the costs and compromising with Bernstein for the coat.

The case of John Winters, charged by one Dickenson with assault with intent to kill, was examined into, and Winters was bound over by the court, on the charge, to await the action of the grand jury. His bond was fixed at $200, which was forthwith furnished. Both parties are deaf farmers of Powell's valley, and owe their trouble to a dispute over the employment of a lady school teacher for the district for which they are directors. Dickenson says that Winters, without previous warning or provocation, assaulted and beat him within an inch of his life, while Winters makes the plea of having first been provoked to the assault by being struck with a rod of [illegible]

A STOLEN COAT.

James Ducke, an employe with the Multnomah street railway, was yesterday informed by the police that he had his coat stolen and was wanted at the police station to identify it. This was news to James, but on going to the station he found the coat there as was represented. It came there through the good offices of Samuel Young, police officer, who arrested a man named Owen McDermit, with the coat in his possession. The officer's suspicions were aroused through McDermit's efforts to dispose of the coat much below its value. McDermit said in the police court that he had bought the coat of another party, but the plea was not believed, and he was held on $100 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

One can see just as far behind as he can in front, which is two blocks, and objects at that distance appear as if seen through a glass, darkly.

Three more attachments were issued yesterday against the bankrupt firm of John Moir & Co., whose store was closed by the sheriff yesterday. The first was sworn out by Ivar E. Dreweno, upon the part of the Mercantile Union for $95. The second by John Dunbar for $620, and the third by the Portland Cordage Company for $95.

All the passenger cars on the through trains of the Oregon and California road have been fitted with the Miller platform, and in a few days the Albany express will be similarly improved. With the air brakes and the new platforms, trains 1 and 2 yesterday were as well equipped with means to prevent accident as any trains in the country.

PERSONAL.

W. P. Smith, a pioneer resident of Halsey, is in the city.

Miss Valaska Yost has returned from her summer vacation and visit to friends at Champoeg.

The wife of J. J. Huffman, of this city, died suddenly in New York on the night of August 29.

Rev. I. A. Banks will leave Wednesday for his new field at Boise City, where he has been appointed by the late conference.

J. E. Evans has resigned as ropes agent on the east side, and will leave this morning for Port Townsend to take charge of the light-house at that place.

Mr. A. J. Megler, mine host of the Occident, Astoria, arrived up by the Wide West yesterday and leaves this morning for Soler Springs, Lane Co., accompanied by his wife, Miss Mary Jewett and Miss Callie Munson.

Mr. G. Q. Stewart, formerly manager of the Western Union office at Los Angeles, Cal., has been appointed manager of the Western Union telegraph office in this city and took charge of the 1st inst.

Miss Anna J. Parrish, eldest daughter of Mr. L. M. Parrish, left yesterday by the Northern Pacific for Boston, where she will enter the New England conservatory of music as a pupil, to remain a year or longer. She will receive both vocal and instrumental instruction, giving particular attention to the pipe organ.

Fred. M. Overback, chief of the night force of telegraph operators in this city before the strike, is now in Jacksonville, where he has permanently located. He has purchased the interest of Wm. M. Turner in the Sentinel of that place, and being a competent practical printer, will undoubtedly achieve success.

R. A. Miller, well known in printer journalistic circles, has purchased the Polaris, and takes the entire editorial and business charge this week. It will continue as a Sunday journal, but the new proprietor promises great improvement. Certainly, any change would be an improvement over what it has been during the past few weeks.

I. N. Sanders, county assessor, leaves this morning for North Powder, Union county, to settle up the business of his brother-in-law, the late Dr. E. F. Hill, and to bring the bereaved family to his home in East Portland. Mr. Sanders will be away about a month, and in the meantime his efficient deputies will attend to all county business.

Dr. Albert A. Ames, mayor of Minneapolis, Minn., who will be one of Mr. Villard's guests at the driving of the last spike, was one of the local staff of the Bulletin in this city thirteen years ago, and at subsequently for a short time editor-in-chief of the Herald. Probably no man in the party will be more anxious than he to see the remarkable improvement made in this city in the last decade.

THE CELEBRATION.

Request of the Committee as to Illuminations and the Use of Gas.

It being desirable that the celebration of the completion and opening of the N. P. R. R. be made a most successful demonstration, the committee on decorations would request that the citizens, especially those living and doing business on the route of march, will decorate and illuminate their dwellings and places of business as profusely as practicable. A very effective illumination can be made by placing rows of lighted candles in each window and by suspending Chinese lanterns in front of the buildings.

The committee would also ask that the citizens will refrain from suspending banners, flags or devices across First street between [illegible] the above streets, as such would interfere with the public decorations prepared by the committee.

It is also respectfully requested that as little gas as possible be used on the ten blocks on First street above designated, as a full pressure will be needed for the public illuminations.

The illumination of the city will also take place on the night of the 10th, and the general celebration on the 11th instant.

WM. M. LADD,

THE BAD BOY AT NORTH BEACH.

He Tells About His Pa Fishing for Tom Cods and Digging for Clams.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Seated upon a piece of driftwood watching the play of the crisped waves upon the bosom of the broad ocean, I noticed a party carrying a man down to the beach on a stretcher from a tent on the shore. The Oysterville coach came along and the man was lifted carefully from the stretcher into the vehicle, which drove slowly off. The bearers marched back to the tent, leaving a boy of some fourteen summers and a cur dog standing on the sand.

After gazing at the coach for some minutes, the lad came over and seated himself upon the log by me, his dog lying down near by. He was a rather suspicious looking boy, and his dilapidated pants, torn and sunburned face showed that he had been at the beach for some time.

"Who was the sick gentleman just placed board the coach?" I asked.

"That was my pa," said the boy.

"What was the matter with him?"

"Well," said the boy, "it is kinder hard o' tell. He seems to be suffering from a combination of misfortunes. The fact is he is all broke up and has gone home to recuperate."

"I should like to know what has brought about this sad state of affairs," said I, handing the boy a cigarette.

He lighted the cigarette and puffed away for a minute, digging his bare toes down into the sand. At last he said:

"I might as well tell you how it happened. Some folks blame me, but I will give you the true business and if you think I did wrong, You [illegible] came down here three weeks ago and fixed up a tent, and ma and my two big sisters and me have been living there ever since for our health. Well, a week ago ma got lonesome and wrote for pa to come down. She said she wanted company and some one to catch fish and crabs and clams for the camp. She made the letter pretty strong, and so pa he came right down. We was all awful glad to see him and the boys the evening he said he would go fishing up to the rocks in the morning if I would go with him and show him the place. So we started out early and got on the rocks just as the tide began to come in. I dug some worms for pa and he baited his hooks and whirled them around and sent them out in the surf. I put them a man next to him [illegible] up a big [illegible] and pa got excited and pulled too, and he caught his hooks in the mussels on the rock and broke two of them. The next time he broke the other, and I said we had better go home. But a man gave him some more hooks, and by and by he caught a tom cod. He was mighty pleased, and whirled his hooks around up hard when he threw them that they carried a man's hat out with them. He pulled it back, and after that was more careful and after awhile had caught six fish and was singing:

'Tommy cod, tommy cod, bite at my hook,
And you shall go captain and I will go cook.'

By this time the tide was pretty well up and the spray flying over the rocks, and me and the other fishermen was scrambling ashore. But pa seemed happy and whirled his line and threw his hooks gay as you please. By and by, as he was whirling away, the upper hook caught in the lapel of his coat and the line wound around his face and the second hook ran up his nose and the third into his ear, and the sinker flew round and whacked him on the side of his head and he gave a yell, and just then a big wave broke over the rock and he came rolling down to the shore, quite dumbfounded. I ran out in the surf up to my knees and grabbed the line and pulled him ashore. The fish were washed away, but a man pulled the hooks out of pa and we went home. Ma was awful mad about the fish, but she put a poultice on pa's nose and ear, as she said, to take the anguish out of 'em, and next morning he felt better.

"So ma thought he had better go a crabbing, as no hooks were used in that pastime. I borrowed a sack to bring home the crabs in, and as the tide was nearly out, we started. We followed along the edge of the water, and every whole crab pa saw he put it in the sack. I thought they were mostly dead ones, but pa did not try them by pulling up the chest protector, which every crab wears, and which lies back in its place as long as there is a spark of life in the insect. By the time we had gone a mile the sack was full, and so pa shouldered it and started for camp. It was very heavy, and pa grunted and sweat, but finally landed the sack safe at home. Ma was pleased, and said we would have some deviled crabs for dinner, and she gave pa a big kiss, and he put a kettle of water on to boil. All the time ma was cooking 'em he kept sniffing and smelling, and wondering what it was that smelled so, and he said something must be dead around camp.

"When they were done he put them in a pan and he and ma started in to open them. The first one she opened was rotten inside, and she was so mad she called pa an old fool and threw the pan towards the crabs in his face. Pa he yelled and jumped around and stumbled and fell into the pan of hot crabs, and I lit out and didn't wait to see the end of the row. When I came back the hatchet, and crabs both were buried and pa was in bed, and he stayed there for two days, most of the time lying on his stomach, and there was an awful smell of decayed crabs and medicine in camp.

"Pa got so he could walk around after awhile and he said he thought he would go after clams. Now you know there is not much [illegible] clams on the beach, about one to a square mile, and you have to hunt a hole before you can find a clam hole. Pa got tired of all old clam [illegible] about how to catch clams, and he said it [illegible] a clam hole, then dig down quick for as soon as the clam hears you he goes down to the bottom of his hole out of reach. So pa and I walked and hunted and at last we found a hole and pa dropped his spade down, but he missed the clam. He kept digging, and by and by he found it. I had got tired of hunting for clam holes and no thought. I would make a few, so while pa was digging I took a little stick and made a dozen holes near by. So when pa saw them he said 'by golly,' we have struck it rich,' and he went for one, which and threw sand like a steam paddle. But he couldn't find the clam, and after working some time he thought he would try another hole. He slipped up [illegible] and chase the [illegible] up to the hilt and pried down on it so sudden that he broke the handle. Then pa got mad, and he dug and dug, till the bald spot on his head got red and looked like the sun did in Portland when we left there. Let the clam was not to be found, and pa dropped on his knees and said something he did not want me to hear and said he would have that clam if he dug through to Goleona or China after him. And he commenced pawing and pawing like a dog after a ground squirrel, and soon he had a hole as deep as a ground reach, but nary a clam could he find. The hole had been coming up for some time, but pa was so excited that he did not see it, and all he was reaching down and feeling around in a blind way for that clam a big breaker came rolling up and struck him behind and knocked him [illegible] his head [illegible] the hole and filled it [illegible] water. Pa kicked so hard when I tried to pull him out that he knocked me over, [illegible] lered and finally came and pulled him out, [illegible] him up the beach and laid him down [illegible] sites I had punished the clam [illegible] the sand out of his mouth and [illegible] breathe, and then I dug [illegible] ears and eyes, and I assisted him [illegible] stried the broken spade and the [illegible] in it. Ya had swallowed [illegible] weighed heavy on his mind, so [illegible] and a stomach pump, but [illegible] doctor said a sand-bar had [illegible] and that a centrifugal sand [illegible] it, that failed we could try [illegible] newly invented dredgers on exhibition in Portland [illegible] that's why pa was shipped."

And not waiting for my verdict as to his guilt or innocence, the bad boy of the beach whistled to his dog and started for camp.

THE EAST PORTLAND COUNCIL.

Fire Company Purchase Passed Over the Mayor's Veto—Notice for the Improvement of B Street—First Steps Toward Lighting the City with Gas.

The regular meeting of the East Portland city council occurred last evening, a full council being present except Councilman Sprague.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

THE MAYOR'S VETO OVERRULED.

The first matter of business occurred on Mayor Myers' veto of the ordinance providing for the purchase of property to be occupied by the First ward hook and ladder company on the corner of Fourth street and Holladay avenue, and owned by A. R. Laing, for the reason that the purchase price, $1000 for 25x150 feet, was exorbitant. The question being put, in effect, "Will the council sustain the ordinance, notwithstanding the veto?" an affirmative vote was given by Crane, Kuehn, Mayo [illegible] (Laing not voting). The ordinance was then declared sustained.

PETITIONS.

From John Fay, John West, Robert McCalla, Jas. Brady, A. S. Root [illegible] Hill and Church & Soden, property owners representing 825 feet, asking for the improvement of B street, from Water to Twelfth, as follows: From Water to Fifth by plank roadway, side and cross walks, full width; from Fifth street to Asylum slough by gravel roadway, full width, wood gutters, side and cross walks, and an elevated roadway with full width sidewalks across Asylum slough, and from Asylum slough to Twelfth street by gravel roadway, full width, with wood gutters, side and cross walks. On motion of Mayo, the prayer of petitioners was granted and the auditor and clerk instructed to give the usual notice in accordance therewith.

From L. and D. Brennan and M. A. Anslie, property owners representing 200 feet, asking permission of withdrawing their signatures from a remonstrance against the proposed improvement of Sixth street, between C and J, having signed the same through a misunderstanding. Granted.

From C. M. Wiberg, offering 25x50 feet on Second street, near Holladay avenue, as a site for the First ward engine house, for $500. Received and placed on file.

From thirteen members of the First ward hook and ladder company, asking favorable consideration of the proposition of Mr. Wiberg to sell a piece of land to be occupied by the company. Received and placed on file.

From C. L. Spore and S. M. Keenan, asking for an extension of time on their contract for the improvement of Third street, between J and L. On motion of Mayo, an extension of thirty days was granted.

From forty-five "citizens and taxpayers," asking for the appointment of one more night policeman. Crane moved to refer to the committee on health and police, and Mayo amended to grant. The amendment failed and the motion prevailed.

From O. B. Bartel, asking permission to engage at his own expense, Austin to assist him in his duties as street commissioner, on account of his being engaged to assist in the decorating of Portland previous to the election, as street commissioner. On motion of Laing, granted.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

From committee on streets and public property, certifying to work done on Eighth and C streets by Thos. Turnbull, on Water street by C. L. Spore on Adams and Jefferson streets by John Eton, and on Ninth street by S. M. Keenan. On motion of Kandorf, reports adopted and warrants ordered drawn for the several amounts.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

From the street commissioner, recommending that a ditch be made leading from L to K street, in order to drain off the stagnant water from the south side of L street; also, that the sewer between Third and Water streets be removed, as it prevents the stagnant water from passing off. On motion of Laing, referred to committee on streets.

MOTIONS, ETC.

By Mayo, that the petition of H. C. Cermack, received and referred several weeks ago, to erect a tank on Third street, between J and K streets, be granted. Passed.

By Mayo, that the committee on fire and water be instructed to ascertain the terms at which the East Portland Gaslight Company will light the streets of the city, and report at the next meeting. Passed.

By Mayo, that Mr. C. L. Spore be awarded the contract to construct an incline, forty feet in length, to connect Water street with U street, at $180. Passed. (This becomes necessary, owing to the elevated roadway, being rebuilt at the newly established grade, which makes a drop of about five feet from this street to the old grade on U street.)

By Mayo, that the street commissioner be instructed to open the drain from Third street to the river, in order to drain off the stagnant water. Passed.

Adjourned.

"DARKNESS."

Byron must have been inspired to write the poem bearing the above heading by running across a streak of such weather as we are now enjoying, if one can form an opinion from the following extract:

"I had a dream which was not all a dream.
The bright sun was extinguished, and the stars
Did wander darkling in the eternal space
Rayless and pathless—and the earth
Swung blind and blackening in the moonless air.
Morn came and went—and came and brought no day.
* * * * Forests were set on fire—but hour by hour
They fell and faded—and the crackling trunks
Extinguished with a crash and all was black."

For further particulars concerning what is in store for us if this weather continues readers are respectfully referred to the poem.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1883.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory.

McMavns' pacer Sinoo is to be raffled soon at Seattle for $275.

Valuable discoveries of coal and limestone have been made near Whatcom the past week.

The Oysterville paper says a fine vein of coal has been found near Elma, the tests made showing it to be of excellent quality.

Reveille: Within a few days a dozen or more steam threshers will be working in Swinomish grain fields in the southern portion of Whatcom county. The yield is estimated at 20 per cent. better than last year.

Oysterville Journal: Sixty claims have been taken upon the North river so far this season. Settlers are going in very rapidly. The valley possesses to a very large degree the requisites of a rich farming and dairy section.

Pacific Journal: As high as 250 sacks of oysters are being shipped daily from Ilwaco. Several loads have been taken from Oysterville by L. A. Loomis' stage line. Present indications are that the oyster trade will be extensive this season.

Whatcom Reveille: The woods are full of railroad surveyors. Four corps of engineers are now in the field for the Bellingham Bay Railroad and Navigation Company. Mr. Tilton Sheets, formerly with the Northern Pacific, is now at the head of one party. E. Shepard and T. C. Austin, engineers, are also engaged on the line.

About 300 Indians says the Whatcom Reveille were camped on the beach near town last Wednesday morning. They were en route for the Puyallup hop-fields. The Indians this year will receive $1 50 per box for picking hops. This is an advance of 50 cents over the wages paid last year, and will enable the industrious Siwash to clean up handsomely on this year's pick.

Whatcom Reveille: A fatal accident occurred in one of the Skagit river logging camps on Thursday of last week, resulting in the death of G. L. Fountain, a young man 27 years of age and a nephew of Reuben Fountain of Nooksack. The deceased was struck by a piece of timber hurled violently from a logging-car and died within a few hours after receiving the injuries. His body was taken charge of by the loggers and brought to La Conner, and from thence to this place in a canoe, where the remains were consigned to a final resting place on Captain Roeder's place, near town. The deceased was a young man highly esteemed.

Southern Oregon.

Jacksonville men are preparing to bore an artesian well.

Jacksonville was blessed last Friday with a generous rain.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says that about 2500 men—whites and Chinese—are now employed on tunnel work on the Oregon and California road.

The railroad depot at "Jump-off-Joe" is located on the land of F. M. Nickerson, clerk of Josephine county, and if is to be named "Josephine."

Last week, says the Jacksonville Sentinel, there were several charges, of 1750 pounds each, of giant powder exploded on the grading of "Bloody Run." The concussion was almost imperceptible and the sound of the explosion was barely heard at a distance of 500 feet, but the work of 1000 men for a day was done in an instant.

Jacksonville Sentinel: From S. L. Dolson, engineer in charge of the fourth division, we learn that trains will be running to Grant's Pass by the 1st of November, and that until that time there will be no change in the delivery of freight. The next station south of Grant's Pass will be at Woodville, for the accommodation of the Evans creek country, and that for the Sam's valley section will be at Chavener's. Camp No. 1 is now located at Severson's, twenty-three miles north of here, and within two weeks the whole line to Chavener's will be alive with men. The clearing of the right of way round Gold hill has been let to Le'evre, and in a few days that portion of the line will be ready for graders, who will have some of the heaviest rock work on the whole extension. The next depot south of Chavener's bridge will be located near the center of the valley for the Jacksonville freight and the next at Phoenix. From the latter point south there will probably be only one—at Ashland.

Some unpaid board and wash bills up here demand his attention.

The Capital Guard band have just received ten new and elegant instruments direct from the eastern manufactory, and having been reorganized and secured the services of an experienced teacher, are resolved once for all to relieve our fair city of the stigma heretofore hampering her of not having a first class band, and are now practicing three nights in the week.

Rev. J. Taylor Chambers yesterday commenced his sixth year of pastoral charge of St. Paul's parish of this city, and in the morning delivered an address commemorative of the occasion, in which he reviewed his labors of the past and spoke encouragingly of the prospects of the future. The little church was tastefully decorated in honor of the event and the exercises throughout were of a most interesting character. During his rectorship in this parish Mr. Chambers has endeared himself to the hearts of his parishioners and is highly respected as a clergyman and citizen by all who know him.

Flocks of wild geese are occasionally heard going south, invisible in broad daylight. It is supposed that they are unable to find webfoot anywhere. Is that what's the matter with the rain?

Mrs. Mary Young of McMinnville has just finished weaving a rag carpet for herself. It is all the work of her own hands. She wove four yards a day. She is 78 years of age and a widowed pensioner of 1812.

Fires raging around Nestucca mills the other day caused the proprietors much anxiety. They burned off some open ground near by and took the machinery out of the mill on to it, but by great exertion the mill buildings were saved from burning.

Andrew Baker's barn near Bellevue was burned on Saturday night. Its contents were one self-binder, two threshers, 600 bushels of oats and forty tons of hay. Loss about $3500; no insurance. Origin of the fire unknown, supposed to be either careless smokers or the work of an incendiary tramp. It was a storage barn some distance from the house.

Whatcom people are agitating the question of electric light by private funds.

"PILES," roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, crows, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

THE EAST SIDE.

COMMENCEMENT OF SCHOOL POSTPONED.

The public school of district No. 21, East Portland, will reopen on Monday, the 24th inst., instead of the 17th, as previously announced. As under the former arrangement there would be one extra week at the close of the first term of three months before the holidays commenced, it was thought advisable to postpone the commencement one week, in order to allow that much further time for necessary preparations.

"TANGLE-FOOTED."

Henry Hill, of Stephens' addition, while attempting to mount a cayuse at the corner of Fourth and L streets Sunday afternoon, got his "foot entangled" in a rope attached to the animal, was thrown to the ground and dragged about a block along Fourth street before the horse could be stopped. As a result he sustained a scalp wound, concussion of the brain, a deep gash in the left cheek and a lacerated upper lip. He was taken to the office of Dr. C. H. Coley, who dressed his wounds, after which he was conveyed home. The victim is the same who a few weeks since was "stood up" and robbed while proceeding home late.

LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Relief Society of East Portland will meet at the residence of Mrs. D. O. Ghormley, on Eleventh street, between F and G, on Tuesday afternoon, September 4, at 2 o'clock.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

THE DALLES, Sept. 3.

Mrs. L. L. McArthur and family returned home from Derry last Saturday.

The Moran building on Front street was sold at auction last week to Geo. Ruch for $1500.

In the list of jurors drawn for the coming term of circuit court there is but one merchant; all the rest are farmers.

A few drops of rain were shed yesterday evening, but they fell in stony places and became absorbed in the smoke.

The beach is covered with wood, and barges are still unloading. It will be a cold day this winter when we get left as we were last.

Reports from various points throughout the country show that the crops have been exceedingly good, better than the most sanguine expectations.

Circuit court convenes this morning. The town is full of country people on this account, and also to see the "last spike" party pass through. The court docket is quite a long one, and no doubt we will have a siege for about a month.

The protective convention of wool growers will meet here on September 26 instead of 10th. Many sheep men have already responded, and a full convention is anticipated. Many prominent men have consented to address the meeting, which will last two days or more.

The Sisters' Academy of Jesus and Mary opened last week with a larger number of pupils than ever before. The Wasco academy and public schools begin this morning, and the book stores are overrun by the school children with their satchels and "shining morning faces."

The new Pullman coaches manufactured by the Pullman Car Company at Detroit, Mich., are beginning to come in. Last week two of them passed through. They are much handsomer, larger and better finished than the cars in present use. The running gear seems to be smoother, also.

The grading of Third street is being rapidly pushed by Street Commissioner Butts. First and Second and all the side streets have been repaired and balanced, until every flaw is removed. Now, all that is needed is to put into force the words of the new song: "See that our streets are kept clean."

Let Rhodes Go.

New York Graphic.

Capt Rhodes is now reported as laughing at the Niagara whirlpool. He says he "can just play with that water." Let him laugh. The chief of police at Niagara says he will arrest Rhodes if he tries to go into the water. If he would arrest some of those bathers who pester people there the public would be better profited. Let Rhodes go. The whirlpool will probably look after him."

A couple of tramps went into a lager beer saloon and drank a quantity of beer for which they had no money to pay. The proprietor instructed his bar-keeper to "Durn dose rascals inside out."—Rochester Post-Express.

"Skin Cure is superior to it. It is fast curing my daughter's ring worm, which had spread all over her body." Mrs. E. L. B. Mc man, Blue Hill, Mass. Druggists keep it at $1 per package.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY, Sept. 3.

To-day has been a busy day with merchants, in addition to collections a liberal number of orders were booked. City collections are not complained of and trade may be said to be good.

The dense smoke hanging about us and continuing to increase in density with each day. River navigation is rendered difficult, as a vessel cannot see its length ahead. Of course the smoke is very disagreeable, but as the smoke has been for every great benefit to crops on it improves the health of the people, it is borne with much calmness. Had it not been for smoke our grain fields would certainly have been scorched to a point that would have given us a yield of little consequence in this valley.

FREIGHTS—Market inactive; no business, with iron quoted at 65s, U. K. There are in port 11,200 tons disengaged, with 2547 more engaged but open to recharter. Ships continue to believe they will yet secure good rates. A better wheat market abroad with increased movement here would doubtless advance freights, but shippers claim both these possibilities are not likely to rise. San Francisco has 1,200,000 tons disengaged with no demand.

WHEAT—English advices to-day show no improvement, although weakness is rather less apparent. A rain followed by fair weather, gives hope that more settled weather is at hand. With us sellers and buyers are showing the same front, neither being disposed to meet the other. $1 32½ is named as top paying price for valley here. An impression that the foreign markets must soon present a better appearance is taking hold here and sellers are looking forward to a better market. Such a turn would please them no more than it would buyers.

FLOUR—To-night's steamer will take out a fair quantity, to replete San Francisco stocks of Oregon and Washington that have run down. The Imperial and Oregon City mills have finished repairs and will get to work very soon.

BUTTER—Stocks rather larger, but there is considerable ordinary to inferior at hand. Choice home roll is inquired after, and will bring an advance on 35c.

POULTRY—While prices have not improved, yet a strengthening tone is manifest, and without very large receipts an advance will be established before the week closes. Old chickens bring 26@6 50. Very few ducks in.

EGGS—Market firmer at 30c, with good request owing to expected advance.

DRIED FRUIT—Values quite firm at quotations. Plummer dried apples in boxes 15@16c; plums 12½@14c; Oregon prunes 12c; German prunes 11c, raisins $1 50 per box, with usual advance for fractions; peaches 16@17c; pears 10@12½c; California figs 1c.

HONEY—Values are steady at 18@20c for comb and 10@12c for strained.

HIDES AND SKINS—Market very quiet but steady. We quote green hides, 7@8c per lb; dry, 14@15c; culls, 8c off; deerskins, summer, E. O., 30@35c; valley 26@30c; winter, E. TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA. From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. Swift's Specific has been the means of bringing health and happiness to thousands who were brought up incurable of Blood and Skin Diseases.

HEAR THE WITNESSES:

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by some of the best medical men, without any benefit. I suffered excruciatingly, and all my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at S. S. S. like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores began to discharge freely and the Rheumatism abated. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, large size, and THERE IS NOT A SYMPTOM OF THE DISEASE REMAINING, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-five pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that S.S.S. has saved me from a horrible death. C. H. SMILEY, Quincy, Ill.

I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with Malaria, and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely. I think it is the greatest discovery of the age. C. G. SPENCER, Supt Gas Works, Rome, Ga.
